CS IV c Family Questionnaires Feedback

Directions: Reflect on the feedback you received in the Family Questionnaires you collected. Explain how the responses surprised you, confirmed your own reflections about yourself and/or gave you a new goal for professional growth.

Upon receiving the feedback I was nervous but also interested in what my family's had to say. The feedback I received was very positive and also helped me to better value the relationships I have with the families in my classroom. Some of my goals were confirmed and I am ready to begin to working on some of the professional growth goals I set for myself including implementing more one-on-one time with children and focusing more on the individual development goals for each child.

I am excited and looking forward to working on becoming an even better teacher and also very thankful to have such supportive and kind parents in my program.
